

Finnish Traditions in Upper Secondary Schools

Jennifer A. Chavez-Miller

Fulbright Teacher Grantee 2015

February 14, 2015

I'm currently living in Jyväskylä, Finland, researching the Finnish education system. I have been in Jyväskylä for less than two weeks, so my context and understanding of Finnish education is limited. This past week, I had the opportunity to visit three schools. It was a unique time to visit with the transition of the 3rd and 4th year upper secondary students leaving school. The activities we observed are traditional to Finnish students and these events were happening all over the country.

This video depicts these traditions through my observations of three groups of students. If you and your students have any questions, please do email me at jcmiller24@mac.com and I'll do my best to respond with accuracy.

TERMS

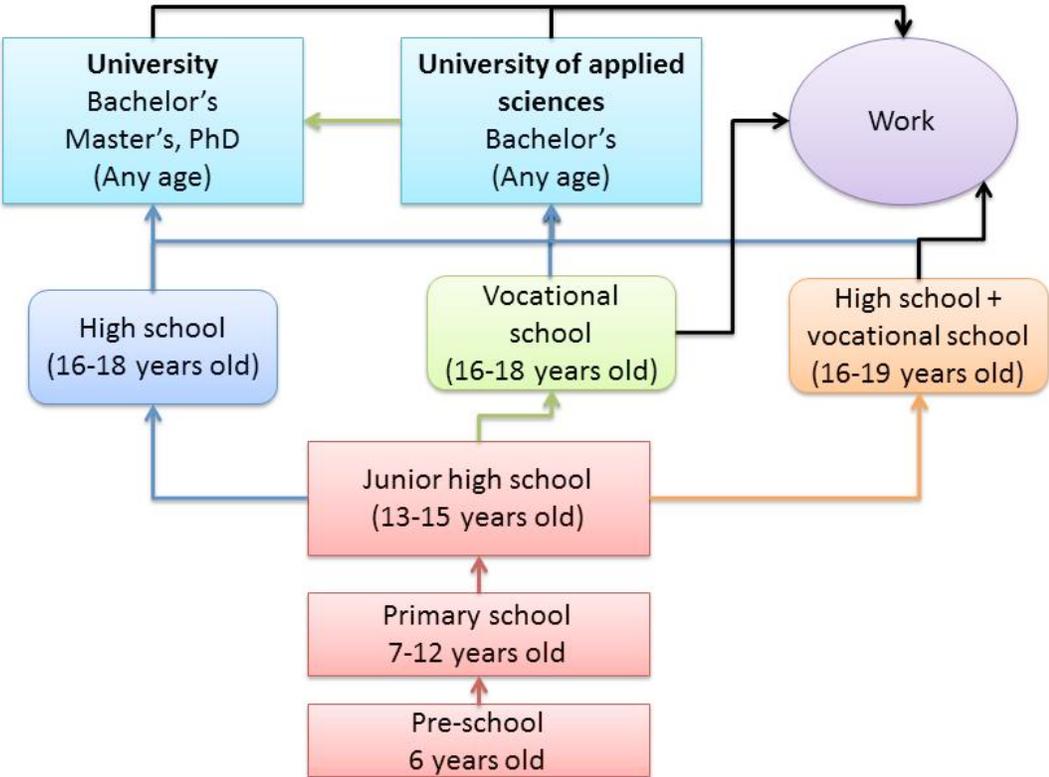

Compulsory Education - education that is required by law

See compulsory education requirements in the world -
<http://chartsbin.com/view/xo6>

Matriculation Exam - Matriculation Examination is the final examination of the Finnish general upper secondary school. Satisfactory pass of the examination leads to a Matriculation Examination Certificate and entitles the candidate to pursue his/her studies further on university level.

More information at <https://www.ylioppilastutkinto.fi/fi/english>

Finnish Education System Overview

Red = Basic education/ compulsory

High School = Upper Secondary